

Mexico, Latin America's second-largest economy, stretches from the deserts of Sonora to the beaches of Quintana Roo. Home to 130 million consumers and the world's 12th-largest e-commerce market, it imports everything from electronics to automotive parts through ports like Lázaro Cárdenas, Manzanillo, Veracruz, and Altamira.

Recently, Mexican customs has intensified inspections—X-raying containers, demanding extra documentation, and holding cargo for weeks. Choosing a reliable, compliant logistics partner is no longer optional; it's essential.

Our DDP sea service solves both speed and scrutiny:

- Transit: 38 calendar days from Guangzhou sailing to our Mexico City warehouse (excluding customs holds or force-majeure delays).
- Free Delivery: Zero last-mile fee for Amazon FBA, Shopee, Mercado Libre, and private/commercial addresses inside Mexico City.
- Door-to-Door Outside CDMX: Quoted on request for Guadalajara, Monterrey, Tijuana, etc.
- Cargo Flexibility: General cargo and sensitive goods (batteries, liquids, cosmetics) handled under strict SOPs to satisfy tightened Mexican regulations.

Why the Crackdown Matters

Random inspections, new tariff codes, and anti-dumping probes can add 7-14 days to clearance. Our in-house brokerage team pre-files HS codes, manages pedimentos, and tracks every container—so your 38-day timeline stays intact.
