

Understanding the Sino-German Trade Relationship and Our Logistics Solution

Sino-German Trade Relations

Germany and China have long been important trade partners. Since 1975, Germany has been China's largest trading partner in Europe, and China has been Germany's largest global trading partner for six consecutive years. In 2023, the bilateral trade volume reached $2067.8 billion, with China's exports to Germany amounting to $1005.7 billion and imports from Germany reaching $1062.1 billion.

This strong trade relationship underpins the importance of efficient and reliable logistics solutions to support the movement of goods between the two countries.
