Singapore-China Trade Relations

Singapore and China have a robust and growing trade relationship. Since 2013, China has been Singapore's largest trading partner. In 2023, bilateral trade volume increased by 4.4% year-on-year, reaching US$71.9 billion. This strong economic cooperation is further enhanced by the China-Singapore Free Trade Agreement (CSFTA) and the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) agreement.

The trade relationship between the two countries is characterized by significant flows of goods in sectors such as electronics, petrochemicals, and machinery. Singapore serves as a critical supply chain hub in Southeast Asia, facilitating seamless trade flows between China and other regional markets[⁷⁰].

Import Taxes in Singapore

Singapore has a highly open trade policy, with nearly 99% of goods imported into the country being duty-free[⁶⁹]. However, certain specific items are subject to import duties, including:

Product Category	Typical Import Tax Rate
Liquor	Ad valorem rates based on assessed value
Motor Vehicles	Ad valorem rates based on assessed value

Petroleum Products	Specific rates based on weight or quantity
Tobacco	Specific rates based on weight or quantity

For goods imported from China, the Goods and Services Tax (GST) is 9% for shipments valued above SGD400[^64^]. Goods valued under SGD400 are exempt from GST[^69^].
